C3: Keeping the Faith & Climbing the Charts

A group from NC is continuously climbing the charts. They are C3, a Lumberton based contemporary gospel trio, whose music can make its' listeners dance, or give them chills through forms of gospel-powerful ballads, blues numbers, rap, and even catchy pop songs. "Our market is everybody" Harley said.

Getting there hasn't been easy, said Kim Worley, one of the members of C3. With the death of their founder two years, Felicia McLean, the singers sometimes wanted to give up, "it didn't always seem worth it," Worley said. McLean formed the group with Worley and Terri Pittman about 15 years ago, along with two male singers who eventually left the group, and the women continued as a trio.

McLean was always pushing them forward, even when she was going through radiation and chemotherapy after being diagnosed with Stage IV breast cancer. Even when McLean was diagnosed with breast cancer in 2008, the group members knew she would want them to keep going, "She refused to let them quit," said the groups manager and producer, Jon Harley. It was that mixture of determination and faith that pushed the group forward, Pittman and Worley said. They brought on Kimberly McKoy, a Fayetteville nursing assistant who had filled in when McLean was too sick to sing. She is a breast cancer survivor, which serves to reinforce the group's commitment to breast cancer awareness and research.

C3 will travel to Nashville to tape a number for the "Bobby Jones Gospel" show on TBN. The group is also gearing up for a national and international distribution deal with Chicago-based Kingdom Records, an independent distribution outlet tied to Universal Records, Harley said. "The real deal is this," he said. "They done came too far to go back." C3 was Gospel Group of the Year at the Independent Music Awards, held at the Seabrook Auditorium of Fayetteville State University, "What McLean had started couldn't be stopped easily," Harley said.

Let's Actually Practice Forgiving

A New York physician says that seventy percent of his patients reveal resentment in their case histories. "Ill-will and grudges help to make people sick. "Forgiveness," he says, "will do more toward getting them well than many pills." Another physician tells of a patient who dies of "grudgitis" - a long-held hatred of another person. So it is healthy to forgive, to say nothing of it being the right way to live.

If you are really serious about self-improvement, you had better do a resentment removal job on yourself. What are some practical steps to take? How shall you proceed to achieve a forgiving attitude? Carefully and painstakingly do the following:

1. Determine that you are going to do this, even if it requires great effort and discouragement. It is not easy to revive deep attitudes. You may be inclined to abandon the effort because it will seem so hard, but hang on. In due time, you will feel the resentment leave you. Christ recognized the difficulty you may have in learning to forgive for He said to "forgive seventy times seven" if necessary. To be literal, that means 490 times. I prophesy that long before you have forgiven a person 490 times, you will be free of your resentment.

2. Remember the harm resentment can do, not to the other person, but to you, even to making you ill.

3. Remember that you will never be spiritually blessed until you forgive. This is a basic spiritual law. Good will cannot flow toward you unless it flows from you.

4. Thinking about forgiving is not enough. You must come to a specific moment when you say, "With God's help, I NOW forgive." (Do that at THIS moment, now, as you read this and be positive.)

5. Repeat the Lord's Prayer, inserting your offender's name, "Forgive ME MY trespasses as I forgive _____."

6. Practice praying for the other person, asking specific blessing for him, especially concerning matters which would previously have annoyed you the most. This will have an amazing curative effect on you and perhaps the other person. Stop reading and do that NOW. This is an action manual, not a philosophizing treatise. Results come from action NOW.

7. Speak in a kindly manner as often as possible about a person against whom you harbor antagonism.

8. Write a brief letter of goodwill. Do not be offended if it is not answered. You have cleansed your own heart-that is what really matters. Write the letter now as you finish this reading.

9. Study the factors which created this unhappy situation to correct the "mistake pattern" in yourself. This will reduce the possibility of similar conflicts in the future.

As Christ now to effect a permanent spiritual change in your nature to forestall future rifts. Ask for a rebirth with all resentment tendencies removed. Sincerely want this, pray for it, believe it is given you, and you will have it. When you have nothing in your heart against anyone, you will be amazed at the new power and happiness which will be
